Beschreibung

Silvia is purposefully different. Where most yachts of her size prioritise maximum cabin count, Silvia takes a more considered approach, one that places the Owner’s experience firmly at the centre of the design. By featuring two fewer guest cabins than comparable yachts, she unlocks a rare luxury: space.

This decision allows the Master suite to be developed across two distinct levels, creating a private Owner’s domain that delivers volume, separation, and usability seldom found in this segment. The result is not simply a larger cabin, but a genuinely residential environment onboard, one that enhances privacy, comfort, and day-to-day enjoyment, whether cruising extensively or spending extended time at anchor.

Silvia is therefore not about accommodating the maximum number of guests at the expense of refinement. She is about intelligent design choices that elevate ownership. For the discerning buyer who values personal space, fluid living areas, and a yacht that feels purpose-built rather than compromised, Silvia represents a rare and compelling proposition.

Silvia redefines onboard living by placing experience, space, and owner usability ahead of convention. This flybridge motor yacht has been meticulously conceived to maximise livable volume and create a relaxed, refined atmosphere throughout, with every major design decision driven by lifestyle rather than accommodation count. The result is a yacht that feels materially larger and more personal than others in her class.

The main deck salon is spacious, light-filled, and elegantly understated. Interior dining is seamlessly integrated into the living area, with a contemporary Italian design language defined by clean lines, a refined monochromatic palette, and carefully placed red accents that add character without overpowering the space. High-end finishes include silvered oak parquet flooring, leather-clad cabinetry, glass tables, and a yacht-wide AV/IT entertainment system that supports both private relaxation and social hosting.

Extensively customised from new, Silvia benefits from a remarkable level of bespoke detailing and thoughtful enhancements. One of her most distinctive features is the custom-designed helm station, conceived with a futuristic, aviation-inspired aesthetic that sets her apart. The experience is completed by a fully adjustable carbon-fibre Besenzoni helm chair, engineered for precision, comfort, and commanding visibility in an environment clearly designed for an owner who enjoys being actively involved in navigation.

Silvia’s flybridge is a true highlight, accessed directly from the helm and conceived as a versatile outdoor living deck. It offers generous space for al fresco dining, a barbecue area, a fully equipped bar with stools, and a jacuzzi positioned for maximum enjoyment. An automatic bimini provides shade when required, allowing the deck to be comfortably used throughout the day.

Accommodation is deliberately exclusive. Silvia sleeps six guests in three cabins, a choice that enables her defining feature: a full-beam master suite arranged across multiple levels. The king-size berth is positioned on the main deck, with the en suite just a few steps below, leading to an additional private owner’s area on the lower deck. This exceptional space functions as a personal lounge, office, dressing room, and bath area transforming the master suite into a private apartment rarely found on yachts of this size. Two VIP guest cabins complete the guest layout, while separate accommodation is provided for a captain and three crew.

Delivered in 2018 to an owner with close ties to the Azimut Benetti Group, Silvia reflects a level of build quality, finish, and attention to detail that is immediately evident throughout. Offered for sale by her original owner, she represents a highly refined, intelligently specified yacht for buyers seeking space, individuality, and a truly owner-focused design philosophy.
